PROJECT '64

Once again this June the doors of our school will close, and the class of '64 will be left with only memories and the new knowledge acquired during the past nine months. We will remember our classmates, the organizations, the classes, and the teachers--all fused together to give us the picture of what we commonly refer to as school. The seniors have done a great deal to enliven Laurel Valley in the fields of academic achievement, in the practical arts, and on athletic teams.

To aid you with your memories, the staff of 1963-64 presents this edition of the LAUREL. We realize that many students will be returning in the fall to further their secondary education; however, this annual is a gateway to their final year, when they graduate and can depend on pictures, words, and memories only as the class of '64 must now do. We sincerely hope the following pages bring to your minds a vivid recollection of the events of our past year with its student endeavors and achievements. It is with these accomplishments in mind that we have collected and assembled these pages.

IN MEMORIAM

MR. J. NEIL GALBRAITH (1908-1963)

Born December 8, 1908, in St. Clair Township, Mr. J. Neil Galbraith was the son of Geneva Galbraith and the late James Galbraith.

Mr. Galbraith served as school director in St. Clair Township for seventeen years and as vice-president of the School Board for several years. When the Laurel Valley Jointure was formed in 1952, Mr. Galbraith became a member of this board and served until his death on October 6, 1963.

A member of the Fairfield United Presbyterian Church, he served as an elder for a number of years.

Because of his great interest in education and in school life, Mr. Galbraith is sadly missed by those with whom he served on the Board and by those faculty members and students who knew him. Even though a man may depart from his earthly home, the spirit of his dedication to his work remains to remind us that he served his community well.

For loyal service
the Staff makes this DEDICATION

Mrs. Florence G. Kerr has served as a member of the Seward School Board for thirty-one years and has been on the Laurel Valley Joint Board since the jointure was formed in 1952. She formerly served as vice president and more recently as president of the Seward Board. In addition she has served on various committees on the Joint Board.

Always active in civic affairs, Mrs. Kerr was the first Red Cross Home Representative in Seward. She is also credited with organizing the Seward Parent Teacher Association and had the privilege of serving as its first president. Later she played an important role in organizing the county Parent Teacher Association. All who know Mrs. Kerr honor her for the many hours of service she has so willingly given to further the progress of worthwhile causes and organizations which have benefited so many people.

The Staff is proud to give recognition to an outstanding woman of our area by dedicating the 1964 edition of the LAUREL to MRS. FLORENCE G. KERR.

curricular and administrative problems

Various citizens of the community fulfill their civic responsibilities by serving as Board members. The Laurel Valley Joint School Board is comprised of members from the three districts of Bolivar, Laurel Valley Merged (New Florence, Seward, and Fairfield), and St. Clair Township. Meetings of the Joint Board are held in December, March, and June.

Since July 1, 1963, the Operating Committee composed of eleven members, two each from Bolivar and St. Clair Township and seven from the Laurel Valley Merged District, conducts all business affairs except for adopting the budget which is approved by the entire Board. Every third Tuesday of the month meetings are held in the cafeteria.

Problems of special consideration are the duty of the committees. The Finance Committee studies the financial situation of the school. The Personnel Committee consisting of three members interviews and recommends the hiring of professional and nonprofessional employees. The four members of the Curriculum Committee discuss the courses of study and determine the curricular needs of the students. The work of the Property and Services Committee deals with the physical and material properties of the school including the operation of the athletic program and the cafeteria. By the untiring effort and co-operation on the part of all Board members, our school system is able to offer a program of studies which meets the high standards demanded of present day education.

The competent secretary of the Joint School Board, Miss Margaret Boyle, is always engaged in one of her numerous jobs.

Members of the Operating Committee meet in the cafeteria to discuss problems that occur in the operation of a school system.

COMPETENT ADMINISTRATION provides

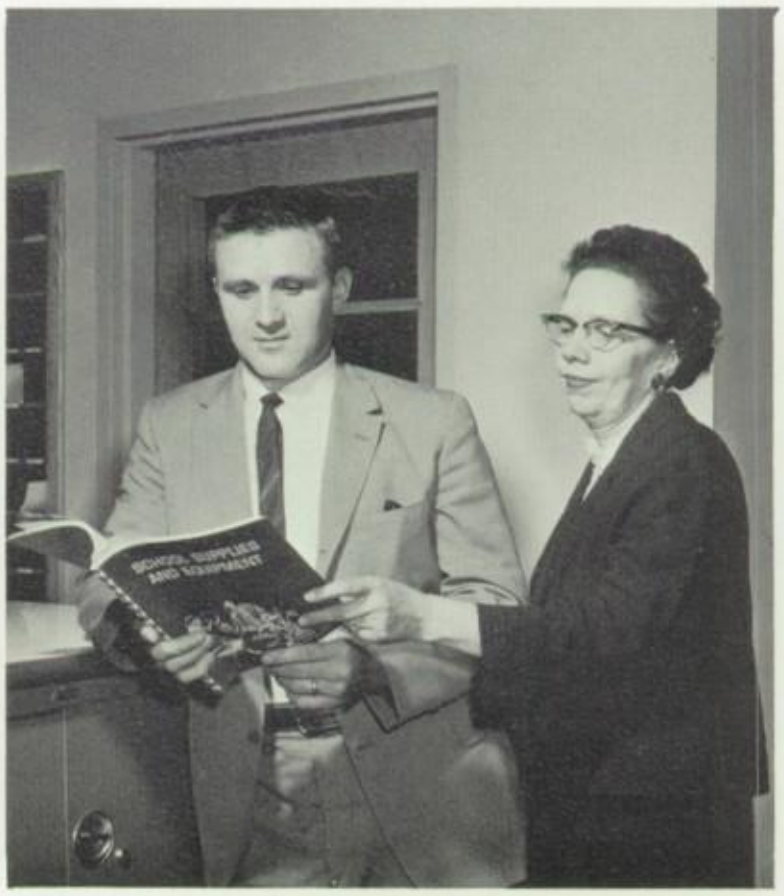
Supervising the many phases of the elementary program keeps Mrs. Irene L. Beard, a well known educator and traveler, very busy. In addition to her many duties in the elementary field itself, she is responsible for the bus transportation for the entire district. Mrs. Beard, a graduate of Indiana State College and the University of Pittsburgh, holds B.S. in Ed. and M. of Ed. degrees.

Checking teachers' attendance reports, arranging educational meetings, and talking with parents about the progress of their children are just some of Mrs. Beard's duties. She must visit the four elementary schools located in New Florence, Fairfield, Bolivar, and Seward several times during the week and recommends to teachers new procedures and methods of approach in teaching. During after school hours, Mrs. Beard often finds time to attend P.T.A. and Board meetings at which she is often called upon to address the members.

Through hard work and cooperation on the part of Mrs. Beard, elementary principal, and Mr. Pesci, high school principal, the program of study in the elementary schools is planned to enable the teachers to present material to the students which may be advanced in the Junior High curriculum. The combined efforts of these two well-liked persons have brought to the halls of Laurel Valley a fine and well rounded educational program.

Another result of the consultation of these two administrators is the fine selection of supplies and equipment used at both the high school and the elementary schools. Determining the amount and types of supplies and equipment needed throughout the year is a tiring task which is approached with much vigor and interest by both Mrs. Beard and Mr. Pesci.



Mr. Pesci and Mrs. Beard devote considerable time to the selection of educational materials.

for advancement in educational achievement

Throughout each school day, Mr. Pesci is faced with many tasks which fall under the line of duty. Many students have been wisely assisted in solving personal problems by Mr. Pesci, and his friendly smile has gained him many friends from members of both the student body and the faculty.

Under the list of duties of the high school principal fall the supervision of the course of study, recommendation to the Board of Education on matters of improving the educational system, and preparation of the program of studies. When Mr. Pesci is not busy with these tasks, he gladly consults with students and discusses any problems that may arise.

Holding M. of Ed. and B.S. degrees from Indiana State College, Mr. Pesci, who believes in following the Golden Rule, is a capable and well-qualified high school principal.

High School Principal Everett Pesci is the policy-maker of the high school building and coordinates classes and activities into an effective educational unit.

An efficient and reliable secretary is Miss Lana Gale Henderson. Besides filing, Lana has many added duties to occupy her time during each school day such as tabulating reports and mimeographing general school materials for the administration.

Miss Linda Magnani handles the switchboard, makes announcements over the p. a. system, and keeps the high school ledgers. Linda greets everyone entering the office with a smile. She daily helps students with their problems.

LANGUAGE ARTS emphasized

MRS. ELNORA J. CHISNELL

Bachelor of Science

MR. WILLIAM H. FLICKINGER

Bachelor of Science

MR. JAMES E. IRWIN

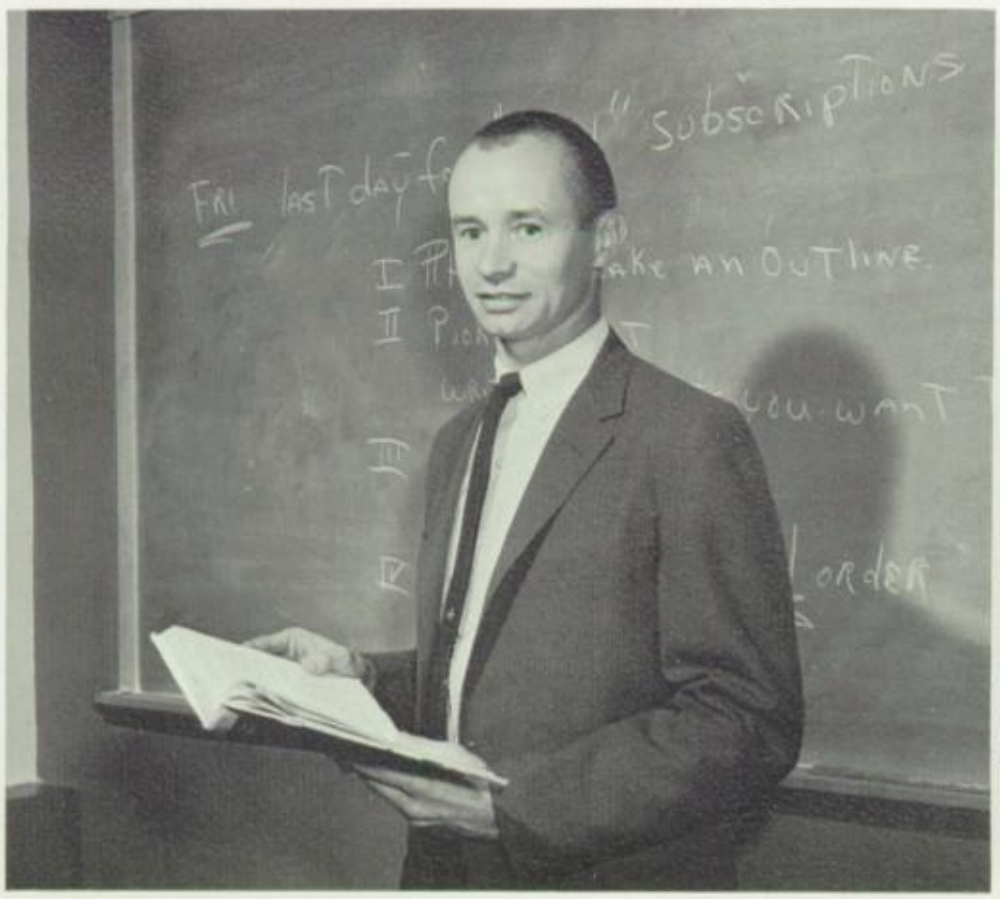
Bachelor of Arts in English

Language Arts....This is the department of communications, a most vital and interesting organ of our school. Since language is the most important tool a student has to work with, instruction in writing, speaking, listening, and reading is offered. Each student is given the foundations of learning to express himself clearly and freely, which will prove instrumental to success in all fields.

Grammar and writing skills, research papers and book reviews are a part of every English student's life. Students are urged to select novels and biographies by different authors for each of their book reviews so that they will have a sampling of the writing styles and techniques of many famous writers. In eleventh and twelfth grades courses in American and English literature survey the historical background and the literary masterpieces in these areas.

Mrs. Chisnell comments on the volume of sales for the fall magazine campaign and points out the useful prizes offered. Pictured with Mrs. Chisnell are Karen Johnson and Gary Saltarelli.

Mr. Flickinger instructs students in the procedure for using the library, a very important place in school life.



With excellent mastery of the Spanish language as well as English, Señor Rodríquez translates a story for his class.

cultural values for twentieth-century life

Along with the study of the English language, the opportunity for learning a foreign language is offered. Through learning a foreign language, the student is given a deeper insight into his own native tongue and a look at the culture and customs of his world neighbors. The Spanish Department is graced by a Cuban-born teacher. His background adds greatly to the study of the language. Students begin to see that our continental neighbors are not so very different from us in their ways of life.

Another fundamental but essential subject, reading, is offered. This course is often taken for granted, because until one has studied reading, he does not realize how very important it is. Reading is a skill that is used a whole lifetime, and unless mastered from the beginning, the student does not get the full benefit of the skill.

MR. A. LESLIE RODRIGUEZ

Bachelor of Arts

In the faculty lounges teachers often talk "shop." Here Mr. Irwin and Mr. McCreery discuss a common teaching situation involving the reading skills of their students.

SOCIAL STUDIES promoted

To make the explanation of many historical events easier to understand, Mr. Pudliner and Mr. Perian often resorted to the use of a movie projector as shown here. Mr. Pudliner fascinates his students with his colorful slides and interesting narrative on Japan.

Social Studies Department... In junior high school, geography of various types is taught as well as history. Seventh graders cover a general study of world history, devising and working on various projects such as scale drawings, models of famous ships, castles built with clay, and historical scrapbooks. American history is taught to the eighth graders, who learn new methods of study including material outlines and written and oral reports. The students also see films of the events they are studying and learn the origin and operation of our American system of government. It is in this course that pupils learn the names and details about our Presidents, past and present. Civics, which deals with the three branches of government and politics, is offered in the ninth grade. As this course proceeds, students stage their own presidential campaign. Pennsylvania history, a most interesting subject, is also offered in the freshman year.

MR. STANLEY E. DOHODA

Bachelor of Science

MR. RICHARD H. HINER

Bachelor of Science

understanding of our world problems

Mr. Bryson with his briefcase filled with history textbooks and materials begins another day.

Smiling pleasantly, Mr. Hiner explains the lines of longitude and latitude to his class.

The senior high social studies program includes many courses. World history is given to the sophomores along with culture of the world. In eleventh grade a more detailed course in American history, including the study of famous documents such as the Constitution, is offered to the student. The Civil War also is discussed quite extensively, and each class often prepares a display of swords and other relics for other students to enjoy. The senior gets an extensive course in both economics and problems of democracy. Economics teaches the student to analyze critically and understand the national and local economic situations and the reasons for its state. Problems of democracy includes a detailed look at the operation of the government and the problems facing mankind today. Recently the classes learned the proper procedure for filing income tax returns.

Mr. Dohoda stresses the importance of keeping up with the current events happening around us daily.

VOCATIONAL and COMMERCIAL COURSES

Mrs. Mabon reads information concerning the latest machines that are being used in today's business world.

Carefully Mr. Sutter explains to his class the fundamentals of bookkeeping, an important tool to a commercial student.

Business Education... This department has for its primary purpose the preparation of students to fill business positions or to understnad better our economic system. Included in this curriculum are classes in typing, shorthand, bookkeeping, economics, business mathematics, business English, junior business training, salesmanship, business law, and clerical practice. In these classes the student not only acquires the basic job tools, but also a knowledge of the job opportunities open to him, the requirements of those jobs, and an appreciation of the importance of his job to the organization. The student has the opportunity to work in real situations where his work is used for the school and the community. This is a change from textbook assignments. Promptness, accuracy with speed, and honesty are stressed. He is also taught to take pride in his work and feel a sense of satisfaction in a job well done.

Bachelor of Science

MR. EDWARD W. SUTTER

Bachelor of Science

MR. JERRY ALLEN

Bachelor of Science

Mr. Renzi prepares an explanation of a math problem for his next class.

offered instruction in the practical arts

Industrial Arts... Our future carpenters and engineers try their wings in this department. An extensive wood shop program gives students knowledge of types of wood, bolts, nuts, and tools. In the metal shop nimble fingers master the arts of welding and working with various metals. Mechanical drawing is available to aid those students who wish to study engineering.

Homemaking... The ability to establish and maintain a well-managed and happy home is a great gift. The girls enrolled in this course learn to do just that, concentrating their efforts on two main divisions, cooking and sewing. The girls learn to use all types of cooking utensils, to plan a well-rounded and nutritious menu, and to cook these meals. Also students study fabrics and the methods to use in making clothes for themselves and others.

Special Education ... Along with the regular routine of English, branches of mathematics, and social studies, the student is taught to live compatibly with himself and others and to use his power of reasoning accordingly. Many interesting projects and discussions take place in the classrooms of this department.

Mr. Pahach comments on a new measuring device in the shop to Mr. Allen, who appears quite interested.

"This is the right length," said Mrs. Harris, demonstrating to her students the proper procedure for hemming.

A BALANCED CURRICULUM

Mr. Howard and Mrs. Renzi observe an intramural game during the activity period.

Miss McKinney, the school nurse, checks the medical history of one of our students.

Reading through some new band music, Mr. Gorirossi and Mr. Hall discuss the arrangement that should be used.

Physical Education ... This department provides the key to a good sound body and a sense of team participation for the student. Both boys' and girls' classes regularly test their strength in the Physical Fitness Tests that are stressed by the President. All students must take calisthenics weekly to develop their fitness. Throughout the year many exciting activities are planned for classes. Among these are the feats that are performed in tumbling on the mats. The student also may take part in many team games such as football, basketball, softball, and kickball. Also available are the high bar and the rings to develop coordination. Students make use of the lockers installed in the dressing rooms to store their equipment.

Mr. Kipp displays the portraits drawn by his art students.

MR. WALTER J. KIPP

Master of Education

MRS. THELMA M. LOWRY

Master of Arts

Music Department .... Laurel Valley strives to develop to the fullest capacity the well-rounded musician, the listener, and the performer. There is an opportunity for listening in the junior high classes and for performing in the junior and senior choruses. Music is truly the universal language, and our school attempts to teach all students a love of and tolerance for all types of music. A student may participate in the junior band and the senior band as well as the junior and senior choruses.

Art .... The students also acquire a general knowledge of the various phases of art, which can be proved by the beautiful handiwork often displayed in the halls and in the lobby at Christmas time.

Guidance Department .... Miss Knupp offers each student individual counseling and advice concerning his education.

Health .... Miss Rebecca McKinney, R. N., is in charge of the Health Department. Among her numerous duties are assisting the school physician in health examinations, handling school insurance on each child, and caring for the health needs of the students.

Library .... One of the most important sections of the school is run by Mrs. Lowry, who has arranged and organized the books by the Dewey Decimal System. Open to all students who need reference materials and literature, our library offers a wealth of information.

SENIORS

Officers .... Karen Lynn, vice president; Barbara Shank, secretary; William Crooks, treasurer; James Robson, president - gather on the front lawn to pose for this picture. # CLASSES

There was the noise, and there was the quiet. The noise came when students jammed the hallways and opened their lockers. The quiet came after the class bell had rung, and only Paul McDowell and Barbara Degano stood quietly at the end of a long hall.

JUNIORS met responsibilities

The students of homerooms 202, 210, and 211, under the supervision of Mr. Kerr, Mr. Rodriguez, and Mr. Page comprised the Junior Class of '64. They had eagerly awaited the beginning of school when they would receive their class rings and assume the position of juniors. Throughout the year they worked on various projects to raise money for their Junior-Senior Prom. The concession stand provided the main source of income and also offered refreshments to the hungry spectators of the football games. Chorus, band, and student council headed the list of extracurricular activities. The boys took part in all varsity sports. The activities of the girls ranged from yelling cheerleaders to diligent typists. Although the year was one of many good times, hard work and study were also characteristics. Subjects such as Algebra II, Spanish, physics, and driver education had to be mastered.

After the final day had ended, the students looked forward to next year when they would return as seniors.

Here S. McGinnis, P. Kelly, R. Peters, D. Trimble and L. Hood proudly display their class rings for everyone to admire.

SOPHOMORES encourage sportsmanship

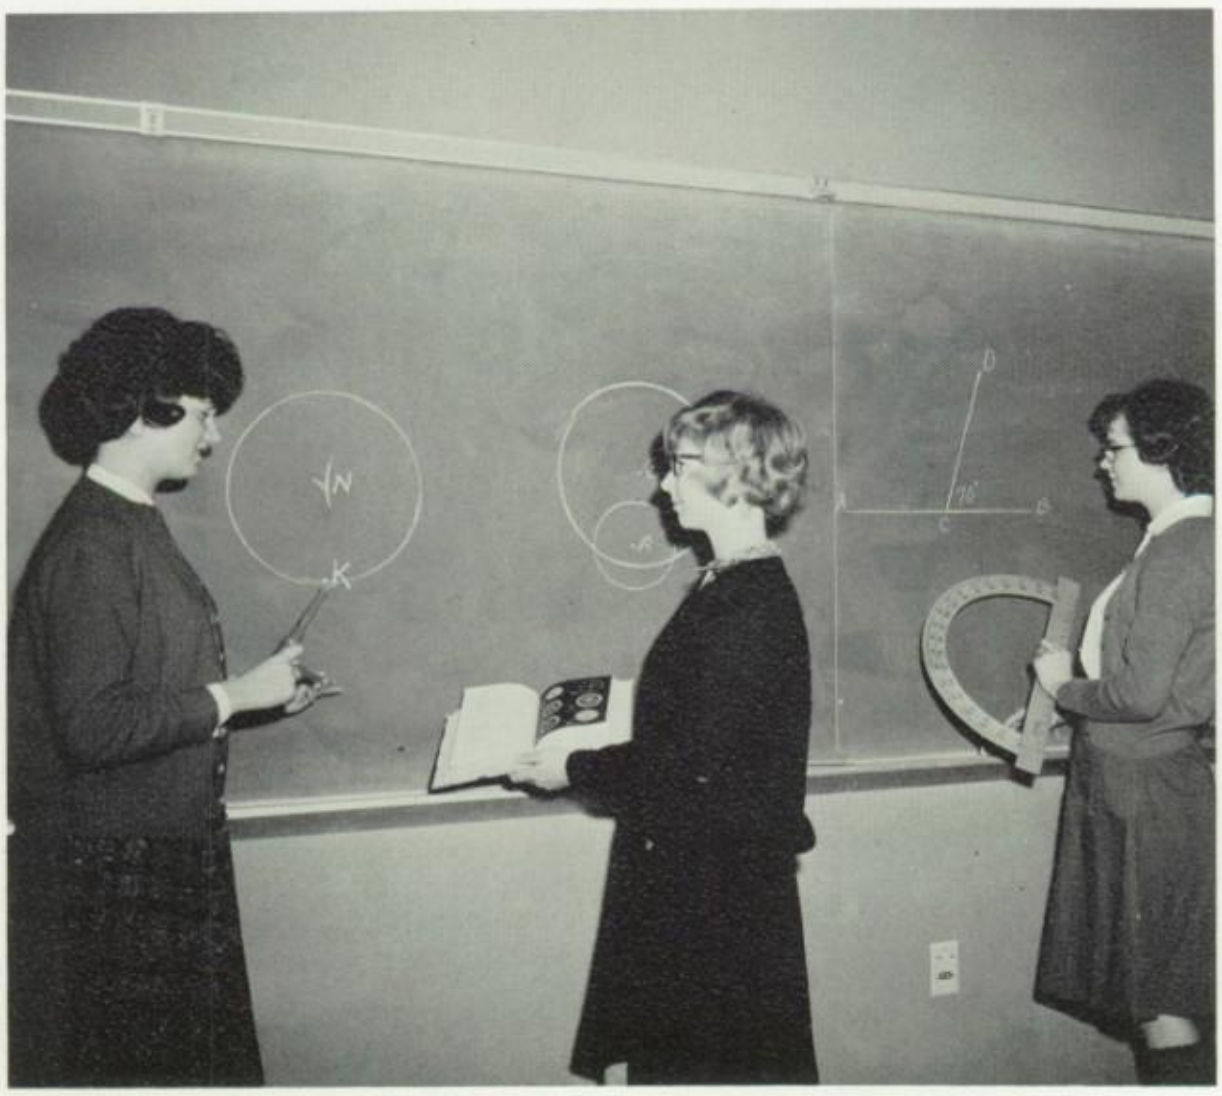
CLASS OFFICERS: Mr. Rodriguez, sponsor; Karen Bechtold, treasurer; Ken Dick, secretary; Mr. Page, sponsor; Gary Sellers, president; Linda Bottegal, vice-president.

Enthusiastic and hard-working students made up the Sophomore Class. Homerooms 201, 203, and 212 were the centers of all their activities. This year they began preparing for their junior prom. Selling candy was the main money-making project. For several weeks energetic salesmen canvassed the area in search of customers, and then in the activity periods reported their progress to Mr. Page or Mr. Rodriguez. Not only was time devoted to their own class, but the entire school also benefited from their work. A colorful display was set up in the showcase during Christmastime. Many of the students took part in extracurricular activities and all varsity sports were strengthened by sophomore participation. The honor roll also gave proof of the time spent with textbooks.

The sophomores have set examples of courtesy and kindness for the entire school to follow and in future years they will become tomorrow's leaders.



The compass and protractor are two of the important tools used in plane geometry by sophomore students. Here Naida Karoly, Suann Waddell, and Linda Fulcomer display their skill with these instruments.

FRESHMEN conquered new subjects

Members of the Freshman Class faced a curriculum of new and varied subjects- biology, Spanish, algebra, civics, and health. Words such as PHYLUM, CONJUGATION, EX POST FACTO and EXPONENT became familiar terms in their vocabularies. Special interest was added in the classrooms by science projects, electron speeches, and practical demonstrations in first aid. Evidence of their scholastic ability was proven by the list of names on the honor roll. The boys took part in L. V.'s sports by participating in junior high football and basketball. The freshman intramural teams proved to be worthy opponents of any class. The students were also active members of band, chorus, and student council. Rooms 101, 104, and 105 under the direction of Mr. Dohoda, Mr. Sutter, and Mr. Pudliner were the homerooms for these students.

EIGHTH GRADERS were cheerful students

The eighth graders are now veterans of L. V. life. This year they occupied homerooms 108, 109, and 110. Their lively spirits and keen interests pepped up all school activities. The students participated in all facets of school life from junior high sports to band and chorus. Part of the year's excitement included the eighth grade dance held in the gym. Their curriculum included the basic subjects of math, English, history, and geography, but practical courses were also an important part of their education. Home Ec prepared the girls for future careers as homemakers. Outfits were cut out and sewn. The fundamental skills of cooking were mastered. Shop classes taught the boys to be handy craftsmen. The projects they produced demonstrated their skill and perfection. As the year ended, the students looked forward to their future days at L. V.

SEVENTH GRADERS adjusted to new ways

Being a seventh grader is one of many first challenging experiences. These boys and girls quickly adjusted to changing classes, attending assemblies, working in study halls, and using activity periods for extracurricular activities. The students accepted the routine of their classes and became acquainted with new teachers and classmates. Activities such as band, chorus, clubs, and intramurals were enriched by their membership. Their untiring effort and competitive spirit in the magazine campaign greatly added to its success. Some boys proved to be well-qualified athletes while many of the girls were enthusiastic spectators at the football and basketball games. Toward the close of the year, the seventh graders were eagerly waiting for that long summer vacation and their report cards with the happy news that they had passed to eighth grade.

LAUREL

"At last!" exclaimed some of the staff members after they had packed the final pages of the 1964 LAUREL to be sent for publishing. Although it was rather a sad occasion, everyone felt relieved to be rid of dateline pressures. However, in spite of the pressures and problems, the staff had their work further ahead than previous staffs, for they had met two days in August and had planned the book before school even began.

Official staff headquarters is room 207 where one could see the familiar faces of the people on the LAUREL staff as well as hear the frenzied activity usually in progress there. While Mrs. Chisnell, LAUREL adviser, was searching through her records to see which pages needed pictures, Carol Ewt, editor, was usually scribbling notes in preparation for a picture schedule, which Louise McCreery, typing editor, would type and have delivered to the teachers by one of the typists. Sheila Zamiska, junior editor, gave helpful suggestions and learned much in preparation for publishing the 1965 LAUREL. Kathy Clawson and Thela Love, feature editor and sports editor respectively, did their share by helping with various layouts and articles. The reporters helped with the layouts and various sections of the book in addition to running occasional errands. In turn, the typists converted the handwritten copy into typed words on specially printed sheets to be sent to Missouri for publication. The typists were indeed an important segment of the LAUREL staff. Gary Saltarelli had the camera handy at a special school activity, for action photographs of school events play an important part in any good yearbook. By often accompanying Gary, Pete Zapalo learned many of the tricks of photography which he will use next year when it is his turn to snap shots. William Peach, a freshman, designed the sketches of the Ram used on the division pages.

Other responsibilities of the LAUREL staff included raising money for publication costs; originating picture ideas; selecting more efficient methods of presentation;selecting paper texture, printing style, cover colors, and cover design; obtaining information for the faculty section; and, in general, planning the book in every minute way. All of these chores consumed considerable time and thought.

However, all was not hard work, for many of the duties performed by the members were completed in a happy frame of mind, for the staff realized the importance of a book which will be cherished for many years by many people, especially the seniors. Therefore, in view of the staff's work, they hope everyone will appreciate the memories recalled through the pages of this annual.

"Hurry, Carol!" says Louise McCreery, typing editor, to Carol Ewt, editor-in-chief, as the two girls enter the yearbook office to prepare pages and assign work to the typists and reporters.

Mrs. Chisnell helpfully explains to Sheila Zamiska some of the golden rules for drawing layouts.

"Bow-wow" says the staff's chaperon while Thela Love hands Kathy Clawson (on chair) some valuable records to be kept for next year's staff.

ANNUAL MAGAZINE CAMPAIGN

"Pretty, isn't it?" says Alberta Bills to Regan Robertson, the two top winners in the annual magazine campaign. Regan, a seventh grader, came in first place in the competitive race and selected a watch as his prize. Alberta, who is a senior, came in second and also selected a wrist watch which she admiringly displays.

Although it is a difficult contest, selling magazine subscriptions to neighbors pays off in the end. Each year the LAUREL Staff sponsors the magazine campaign when each student is given an unlimited number of subscription blanks for their sales. The two students who sell the most subscriptions are given their choice of a very fine prize when the two-week period of the contest ends. In addition, the homeroom which collects the most money is invited to an ice cream party which the top winners and homeroom representatives also attend. It is tough competition, but these pictures prove that some students were ready!

Could it be lunch time? No, these people are simply engrossed in consuming their delicious reward--ice cream! Room 107 won the contest.

helped to pay publishing costs

The girls who collect the money from the sale of the magazine subscriptions, which helps the staff acquire funds for the publishing of the LAUREL, also collect the money for the purchases of yearbooks. These girls are selected in each homeroom to collect the payments and record these for the LAUREL staff. Payments are collected monthly. This gives each student the opportunity to pay gradually for his book, which is received at the end of the year. The representatives greatly aid the staff, since it is almost impossible for the business managers and their assistants to go to each homeroom in a single activity period of any one day.

After collecting money from their homeroom classmates, LAUREL representatives report to room 207 to turn in their money to the LAUREL staff. Here Mrs. Chisnell, collecting from Suzanne Peach, Shirley Howard, and Judy Rensko, records the sales for each room.

LAUREL LEAF STAFF

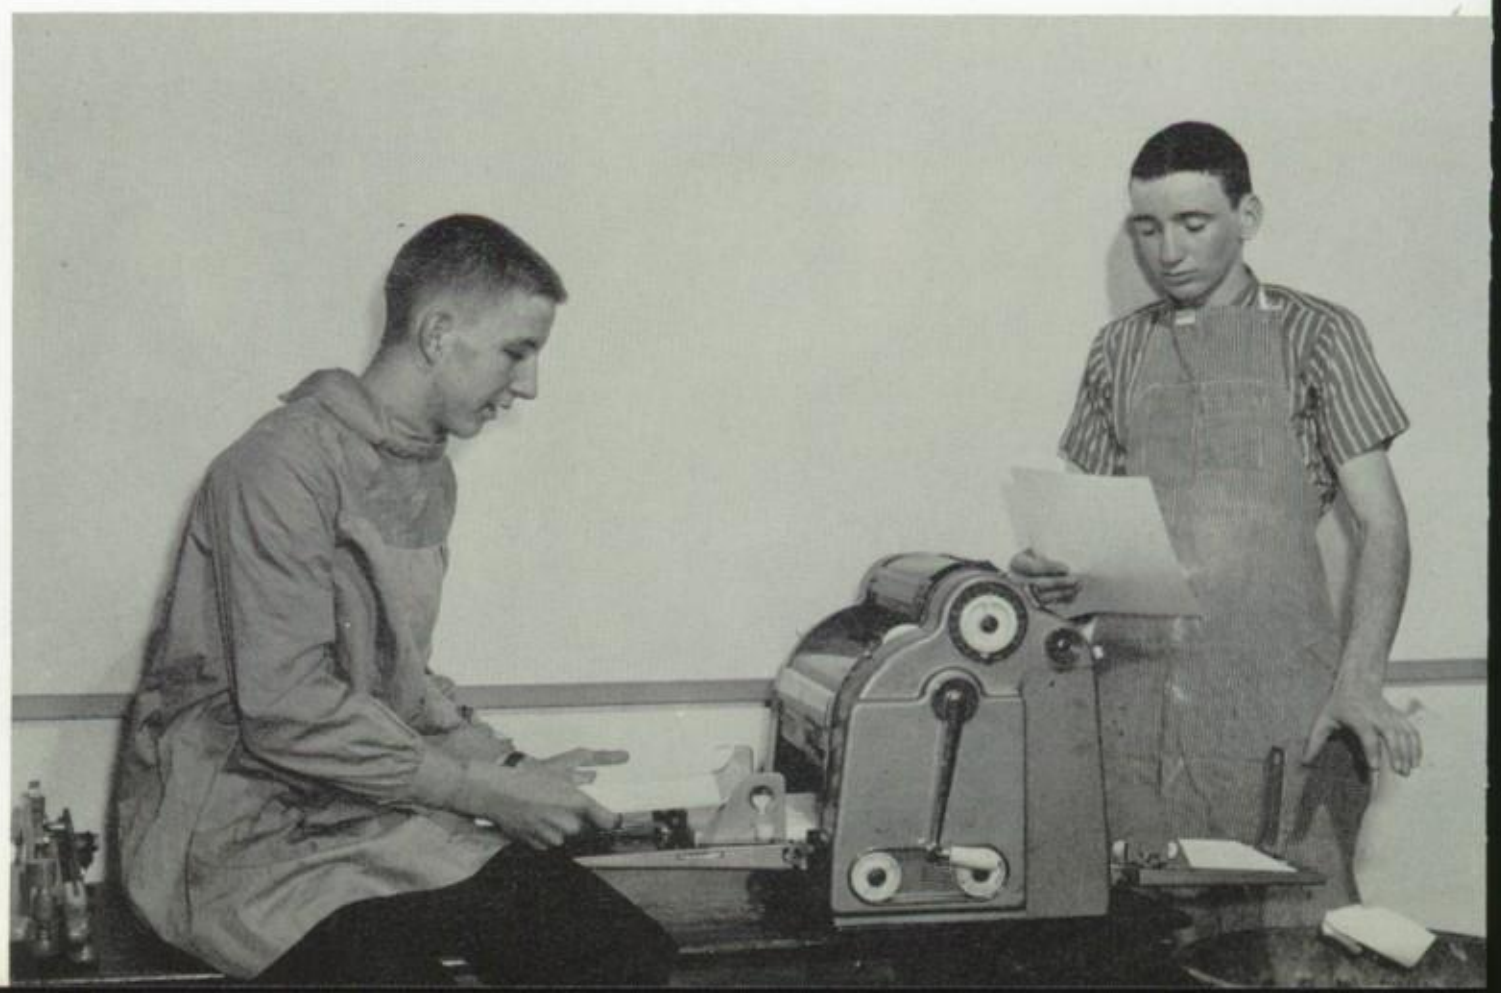
The chief jobs of Louise McCreery, editor, and Darlynn Mabon, co-editor, were to type the rough draft of the LAUREL LEAF, check the typed stencil for errors, and deliver the finished copies to the homerooms every Friday morning.

The staff strived to meet the deadline set by Mrs. Mabon, the supervisor. News articles collected by the reporters are checked by the editors and the first copy is typed. After the rough draft is typed, it is checked and approved by Mr. Pesci. The editors are responsible for seeing that the school newspaper is prepared on time, is free of errors, and is delivered to the homerooms every Friday morning. As soon as one issue had been mimeographed, the group started to prepare the material for the next leaf.



Gary Shetler and Duane Cummings mimeographed the paper every Thursday. Their job consisted of counting out the proper number of copies for each homeroom and stacking them for delivery.

published weekly news

The LAUREL LEAF, a weekly bulletin published by the FBLA, contained such items as the menu for the following week, a calendar of coming school events, a review of previous activities, names of students who have been accepted at different universities or who have recently won awards, and a summary of the preceding week's sports program.

In their role as typists, Barbara Shank and Karen Lynn strived for a neatly finished copy, which meant keeping errors to a minimum. Under the guidance of Mrs. Mabon, they were able to perform their task with great efficiency and accuracy.

Meeting a specific deadline was the main interest of the reporters, who could always be found roaming the halls in search of news articles of interest to students, teachers, and parents. Ingrid Graham, Mary Ann Regula, and Carol Ann Robb often compared notes in order to write a more perfect article. Mike Kelly, sports reporter, is absent from the picture.

honored outstanding scholastic ability

Membership in the National Honor Society has become recognized nationally as one of the highest honors that can be bestowed upon a high school student. It is the responsibility of the faculty to nominate candidates and finally elect the students for membership. Qualified members must maintain an eighty-five per cent average in all subjects. Induction of the new members is an important event for the students and the entire school. This year members of the Ligonier chapter assisted in the ceremony. Services of the society include card showers to students who are hospital patients. Money earned from their dance went toward the purchase of a banner and handbooks. EMBLEM: Keystone and flaming torch.

The keystone bears the letters C, S, L, and S on its base which stand for the four cardinal principles of the organization: Character, Scholarship, Leadership, and Service.

COLORS: Blue and Gold.

FLOWER: Yellow Rose.

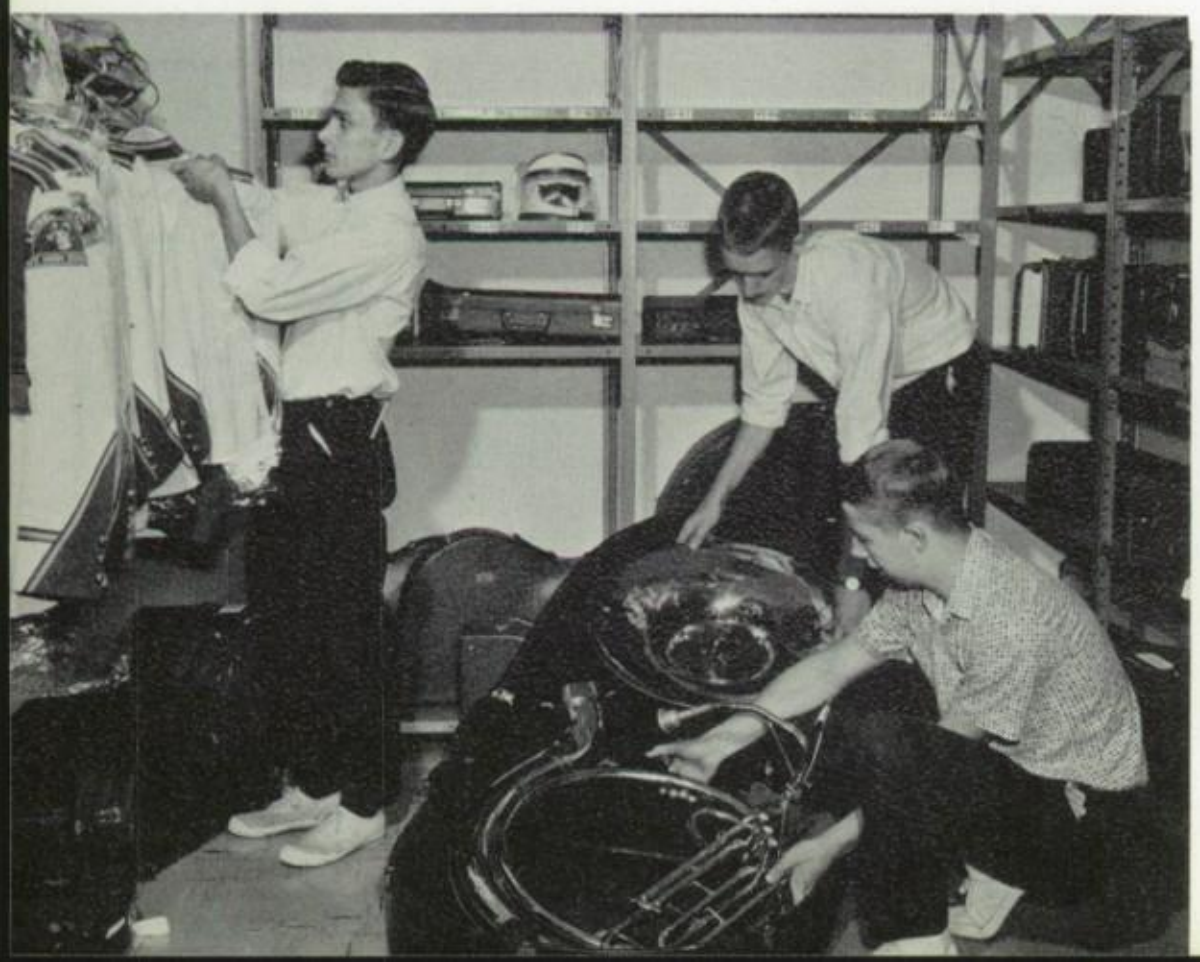
BAND remains one of Laurel Valley's finest

BAND MANAGERS: Gary Saltarelli, Dave Mundorff, and Rex Garland.



Belonging to the band is an honor all its own and this privilege is not to be taken lightly. Membership distinguishes one as being a part of that wonderful world called music. This organization cultivates a sense of appreciation for the finer things in life and makes one more aware of that priceless gift so often taken for granted. The band also develops a sense of responsibility and a devotion to duty that few other organizations can induce in their members.

A portion of the MUSIC DEPARTMENT'S

This year Laurel Valley acted as host for The Westmoreland Senior High County Chorus, composed of students from schools all over the county and directed by Dr. Charles Davis, head of the Music Department at Indiana State College. Although the matinee was cancelled at the last moment, the evening performance produced a quality of music that was a pleasure to hear and a tribute to Dr. Davis' directing.

Although these members of the Music Department play a small role in the general scheme of things, they serve a definite cause. These people make the various activities function smoothly. In addition they give "class" and distinction to the band and chorus. These members are indispensable, integral parts of the Music Department.

CHORUSES had talented vocalists

OFFICERS: J. Cook, president; D. Mabon, secretary; L. Whyte, vice-president; B. Shank, treasurer; G. Saltarelli, librarian.

Cheryl Kerr, talented pianist, practiced diligently with Mr. Hall to perform beautifully with the chorus.

The senior chorus of Laurel Valley began a busy year with a hayride for members and guests in October.

In November the school vocal department hosted the annual Westmoreland County Senior High Choral Festival. Ten of our students sang in the county chorus and we provided the accompanist and her assistant. Also, for the first time in Laurel Valley's history, a solo spot was given to a group from here. The Valley Liters Quartet was selected in competition to perform by themselves during the program.

A non-performing, but important, accomplishment of the choral department this year was the purchase of a stereo set for the music room.

The junior chorus met twice a week. This chorus of 100 voices worked very hard to make a good appearance in the spring program. Several members attended the county junior high festival in April.

Under the leadership of Mr. Hall, vocal music supervisor, the choruses mastered the difficult numbers selected for their programs. No one will ever forget his outstanding direction of the "Hallelujah Chorus" at the Christmas program.

Music provides a variety of extracurricular activities. Many students are active in the chorus and band. The Laurel Valley "Valley Liters" have brought pride and delight to the students of our school by their outstanding performances. Many musically inclined persons have spent long hours of hard work and preparation to obtain the goals they have reached.

These students sold the most candy in the contest held by the band.-- TOP TO BOTTOM: J. Laughner, D. Trimble, C. Patterson, M. Shaftic, R. Priest.--and were treated to a party at Carbone's Restaurant at Crabtree.

Darlynn Mabon and Faith Tomb are senior members of the band who were absent the day the regular band picture was taken.

The Valley Liters' graduation in June will bring to a close an enjoyable association of two years. All who love music will miss the sound of their beautiful musical arrangements when September rolls around. Our school will not be the same without their performances. It will be a long time before another talented group of boys such as these will perform before the student body with such outstanding talent, poise, and ability,

AWARDS' DAY recognized

Naida Karoly and Ken Dick were presented awards for their prize winning themes entitled, "That This Nation Should Not Perish." The contest was sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars for junior high students. Naida won first place and Ken took second place. Mr. Artac congratulated the winners.

Mr. Artac presented Steve Peters and Elaine Short the American Legion Auxiliary Awards after they had been chosen the outstanding eighth graders of 1963.

To many students, May 17, 1963, will long be remembered. As jackets, trophies, awards, pins and certificates were presented, the end of another year's work was in view. Student recognition ranged from scholastic achievement awards to athletic awards. The band and chorus members received pins and certificates for their participation. The Laurel staff dedicated the 1963 edition to Mr. Howard and Mrs. Ripley, and the members were presented bracelets and pins by Mrs. Chisnell, their sponsor, for their faithful service. Mrs. Mabon presented awards to the members of the Laurel Leaf Staff.

Louise McCreery, representing Laurel Valley's FBLA chapter, presented Mr. Artac a plaque for the high school trophy case. The plaque was awarded to this organization because it was the best chapter in the region. Mr. Sutter, the FBLA sponsor, looks on.

Miss Knupp, sponsor of the junior high cheerleaders, presented Karen Bechtold, Paulette Robertson, Marlene Wynn, Karen Warfel, Candy Flickinger, and Rose Kastner with letters and certificates.

Sheila Zamiska was presented a certificate for attendance to the science seminar held at Greater Latrobe High School by Miss Salerno.

The Future Business Leaders of America, under the direction of Mrs. Mabon and Mr. Sutter, was one of this year's busiest clubs. The members entered a state contest for activity reports in which they listed all they had done as a benefit to our school and our community. The club also had twenty-seven members participate in the regional contest held at United this year. Besides working on a national theme, "Career Competency," these enthusiastic members also made a scrapbook containing their different school activities of the year. # VARSITY CLUB The spirit behind the athletic program

The Varsity Club under the expert guidance of Mr. Page and Mr. Dohoda eagerly worked their way toward their main objectives for the year. Heading the list of achievements accomplished by the club members are the purchasing of letters to be given to all letter winners on Awards Day, the financing of needed equipment for the athletic program, and the presenting of trophies to the three outstanding senior athletes. The Varsity Club earned the money needed to complete these functions by selling candy during the lunch periods and at home basketball games. The club also sponsored dances to aid them financially.

DRAMATICS

The Drama Club under the direction of Mr. Lute and Mr. Rodriguez was dedicated to the sole purpose of acquainting members with the theater. From this club will come some of L. V.'s future basketball stars. The boys learned the basic fundamentals--to control the ball, to master plays, to learn to shoot foul shots, hook shots, and lay ups.

Mr. Pahach and Mr. Renzi are capable sponsors since Mr, Pahach is head coach of the varsity basketball team and Mr. Renzi has officiated at many of the girls' (Ramettes) basketball games.

Mr. Pahach has often said that from this group of young, interested, and talented boys will come the future stars and coaches of tomorrow. One point of interest is the detailed discussions enjoyed by the boys about the way a coach may handle a problem or a certain play in a high school varsity contest. The members are given more insight into the trials and tribulations facing basketball coaches than these students could get in just an ordinary playing situation.

marksmanship and firearm safety

Becoming better acquainted with firearms and safety equipment was the objective of members enrolled in the Rod and Gun Club. Because membership was so large, activity was limited to a certain extent although everyone did learn to be an expert in rifle safety. Members were encouraged to enroll in the National Rifle Association to receive a reward for their efforts in the field of safe firearm handling. Under the capable direction of Mr. Gorirossi, Mr. McCreery, Mr. Allen, Mr. Gasdek, Mr. Schaller, Mr. Kipp, and Mr. Kerr, everyone learned the great responsibility that one assumes when handling a firearm and the rules and habits of a safe sportsman.

The Student Council is a vital and important organ of our school. Through this organization students may voice their opinions and make suggestions for improvement in the functions of the school. Like any other official organization, the Student Council is operated by a Constitution, which the members revised and added to this year. The main activity of this energetic group, however, was the bookstore in the guidance office. In this store students would purchase the supplies they needed for classroom work such as tablets, pencils, pens, notebooks, and paperback novels. This year the Student Council was operated by the Rules, Financial, and Executive Committees, which met during activity periods throughout the year.

The "63" football team did not compile a record that could be said to be impressive. Although the Rams had a record of one win and seven losses, the players worked hard throughout the season to master the game. The win was posted against Lilly. With only two senior lettermen back, Coach Stanley Dohoda managed to draft a willing but inexperienced team. For the first time, the Rams were able to see themselves on film. This view enabled them to correct their errors and to watch how the opposition worked. The Varsity squad had difficulty in putting together a well-played game and many players were used in an "all out" effort to win. The outlook for the "64" team shows many good prospects, both of returning and up coming boys.

George Flickinger provided the team with a steady passing attack as well as shifty ball handling. Jim Gehring was noted for his defensive ability during his three year term with the Rams. Wayne Dick helped the team both defensively and offensively during his one year career. Dick Smyder used his abilities in the line to help the Rams in crucial situations. Terry Ritenour proved his football skills when he performed for the Rams on the gridiron.

At practice sessions George and Jim led the team in calisthenics. These co-captains were subject to constant pressure from the team as well as the coaches. They had to keep the team in high spirits. Along with the rest of the seniors, they showed their capability to take losses in stride and hope for a victory in the next game.

Under the lights, the boys engaged in thrilling games with formidable opponents.

This year's junior high team, under the competent guidance of Coach Gerald Page, compiled a 1-3-2 record.

Although the Rams lost seven players from the starting lineup, the rebuilt team proved they were eager fighters and were willing to play good ball.

Many practice sessions were held before and during the season. The sessions consisted of calisthenics, running, passing, and other essential drills. Finally, it was time for the first game. Spirits and hopes rang high, but the boys could only produce a tie.

Throughout the season, the boys put forth their utmost in effort. Players on the bench contributed strong enthusiasm to their fellow teammates. Substitutes were used often in the search for a winning combination.

Mr. Pahach had to rebuild without Dennis Doyle, who paced last year's team in scoring 357 points. But the Rams' mentor found a willing and able squad. There were three returning lettermen--Bill Friedman, Jim Robson, and George Flickinger--who accounted for many of the points scored.

played a smooth game of ball

The outstanding contest of the season was played against East Conemaugh. With three minutes remaining, the Iron Horses came to within one point (46-45) of gaining the lead. George Flickinger then converted two fouls and Wayne Dick made a field goal to preserve the win.

The Ram cagers proved their strength on their home court as well as on their opponents'. The Varsity posted eight wins against one loss in the opening portion of the season. The team provided great excitement for their fans when they beat their arch-rivals Ligonier and United both at home and away. In a hard fought contest, the Rams edged out Blairsville by one point. The West Central League teams proved the toughest competition during the season.

The managers played an important part for the team by taking care of the equipment for the games. The Rams will lose six seniors from the squad. Hopes are high for a winning season next year.

TAKE ME OUT TO THE BALL GAME

Under the able guidance of Coach Gerald Page, the Laurel Valley baseball team comprised a record of six wins and four losses. Throughout the season the boys fought with spirit and determination. The won-lost record does not give a true picture of the team as all four losses were closely contested games. The 1963 baseball team played games with the following schools: Central Cambria, Indiana, Nanty Glo, Gallitzin, Cambria Heights, Westmont, and Conemaugh. The leading hitter was first baseman Ken Gray.

Mr. Howard and Mrs. Renzi contributed to the school's athletic program by sponsoring intramurals. The purpose of intramurals was to provide a program that would stimulate competition.

The schedule included snowball, basketball, football, and baseball. Members of the Intramural Club served as officials for these games.

There were two divisions in the program, junior high and senior high. Each team played so many games; then the championship of that division was awarded to the team that had won the most games. After this championship was decided, the junior high and senior high winners met to see who was the grand champion.

Every activity period shouts of joy, moans, and general excitement rang throughout the school. The officials need to be commended for their thorough knowledge of the game and for their fairness. They had many tough decisions to make.

NEW ADMINISTRATIVE AND BOARD

MR. JOHN JACK

Mr. John Jack began his duties as Supervising Principal of Laurel Valley School System during the week of January 5, 1964. Mr. Jack graduated from Ebensburg-Cambria High School and Penn State University, earned masters degrees from the University of Michigan and Penn State. He started his professional career teaching history and English in the old New Florence High School, later taught in Ebensburg, was supervising principal in Armagh (7 years) and Williamsburg (10 years) before going to Captain Jack High School in Mount Union 10 years ago.

Nature plays no favorites in apportioning her day time. The sun rises at the appointed hour for all alike and so gives each one an equal start with his fellow-workers.

There may be some who appear to reach their heights without taking advantage of that equal start but they are the exception to the rule and make poor examples by which to evaluate your efforts.

Time is divided into past, present and future--with the future steadily shifting over to the past like the hands of the clock, and when it passes the ever present, is the time to think, act and work--making every minute of the present count to insure the pleasant vision of a successful past.- Mr. John Jack.

The Board meets in the high school cafeteria three times a year in the months of March, June, and December. In November of 1963 new members were elected and were later sworn into office the first Monday of December, 1963, which is the Board's reorganization meeting. The new members are Richard Robson, Roy Richardson, Albert Rager, and Ralph Wineland.

GYM CLASSES stressed

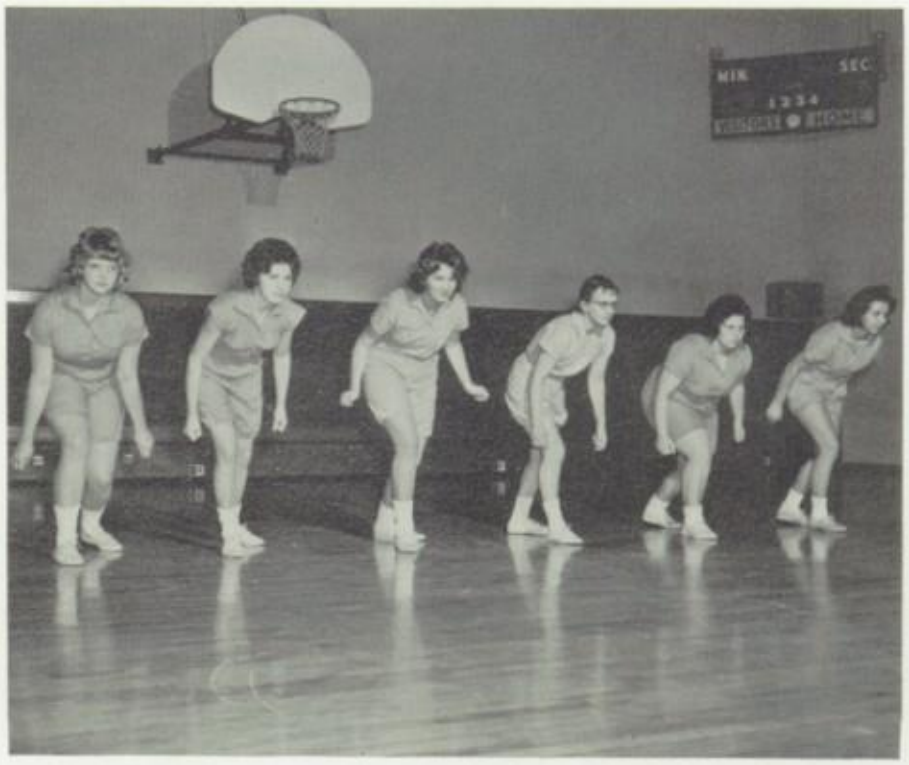
These girls show their ability to construct pyramids. This exercise tests a student's balance, muscular coordination, and physical strength.



The one hundred yard dash was a part of the physical fitness test.

Every gym class opened with exercises. These proved a valuable asset in getting the girls in good physical condition. Under the able guidance of Mrs. Renzi, the girls learned the fundamentals of baseball, snowball, basketball, and tumbling. Physical fitness tests were given periodically. These tests evaluated a person's athletic ability as compared with the national standard. When the girls had tumbling, each roll, flip, or headstand was demonstrated by Mrs. Renzi or Kathy Rummel before a student was permitted to try to do these. Safety was also stressed by the use of spotters.

Sit-ups were part of the exercise routine in the regularly scheduled gym classes.

the value of physical fitness

Sam Howard attempts a bounce pass to a fellow teammate as Denny Bernabo guards him. Basketball was one of many activities of the physical education classes.

Mr. Howard instructed his classes in wrestling, basketball, softball, snowball, volleyball, and many other skills. The boys also worked on the rings, mats, and parallel and high bars. At the beginning of every class, exercises were given to develop physical fitness. Athletic participation was extended through the use of the intramural program. Each class submitted teams to compete in these events. Safety was not disregarded in any of these competitions. Active participation in gym classes was a must for anyone who wanted to be healthy. The exuberance of the boys was shown throughout the year.

Chuck McCreery demonstrates his ability on the parallel bars. This feat requires excellent balance and strong muscles. Chuck is preparing a swing with a rear dismount.

keen intellects

The purpose of the Westmoreland County seminars is to acquaint selected students with additional knowledge which is not obtainable in the classroom.

Laurel Valley was represented at the Humanities Seminar by Joseph Cook, Carol Ewt, Robert Jones, and Kathy Clawson. The programs were held at Greater Latrobe High School every Wednesday night during March and April. Noted lecturers discussed the importance and progress of subjects such as drama, politics, physical fitness, and religion.

Sheila Zamiska and Gloria McClure attended the Science Seminar. Every Wednesday night during the entire school year sessions were held at Latrobe. Lectures and movies on topics ranging from physics to the theory of Probability were the main features of the programs. Occasional field trips were taken to district industries. Participation in the seminar includes the three years that the student is enrolled in senior high school.

These students set examples of achievement and scholastic ability for the entire school to follow.

grounds and building

Keeping the school's facilities in good running condition are Laurel Valley's three well qualified sanitary engineers, Mr. Jobe, Mr. Caldwell, and Mr. Lear. Besides working during the school year to provide the faculty and the students with a pleasant atmosphere in which to work and learn, the janitorial staff is kept busy during the summer months preparing the building for opening in September.

FAREWELL LV

The Hawaiian Luau is one dance that will never be forgotten by the members of the Class of 1964 who sat under the palms at their junior-senior prom of 1963. This picture clearly reveals the result of some of the work involved in preparing for the formal occasion. Sitting are Thela Love, Beverly Wineland, Joseph Cook, Carol Rensko, William Friedman, Lynn Busch, Karen Lynn, and Mary Ann Regula. Standing are Richard Smyder, Larry McCoy, Robert Jones, James Robson, and Barbara Shank.

A HAWAIIAN LUAU

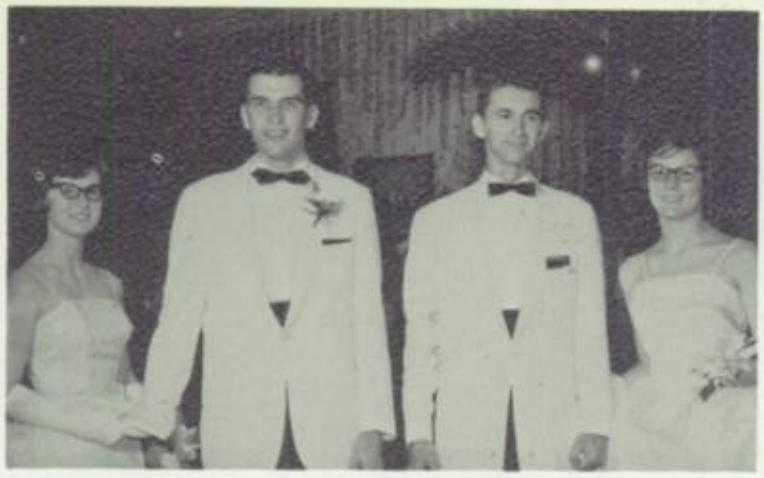
The evening--May 10, 1963--everyone had been waiting for had finally arrived. After weeks of intensive preparation, the juniors presented to the seniors the 1963 Prom--HAWAIIAN LUAU. The gym became a lovely island, laden with waving palm trees, a bamboo native hut, and a glowing fire pit surrounded by a magnificent view of the sea. Throughout the evening, the guests enjoyed dancing to the music of Ken Maurey, snapping pictures of the beautiful scenery, and sampling the tempting Hawaiian Punch served in true luau style.

Our pretty editor, Carol Ewt, imagined that she really was in Hawaii.

"Let's dance," suggested Bill Crooks to his attractive date, Karen Wagner.

Under the palm trees sat Betsy Jarvis, Gary Shetler, Allen Garland, and Mary Ann Clark.



Cheryl Kerr, Denny Doyle, Jim Robson, and Sandy Kerr stepped from the native hut into the tropical paradise.

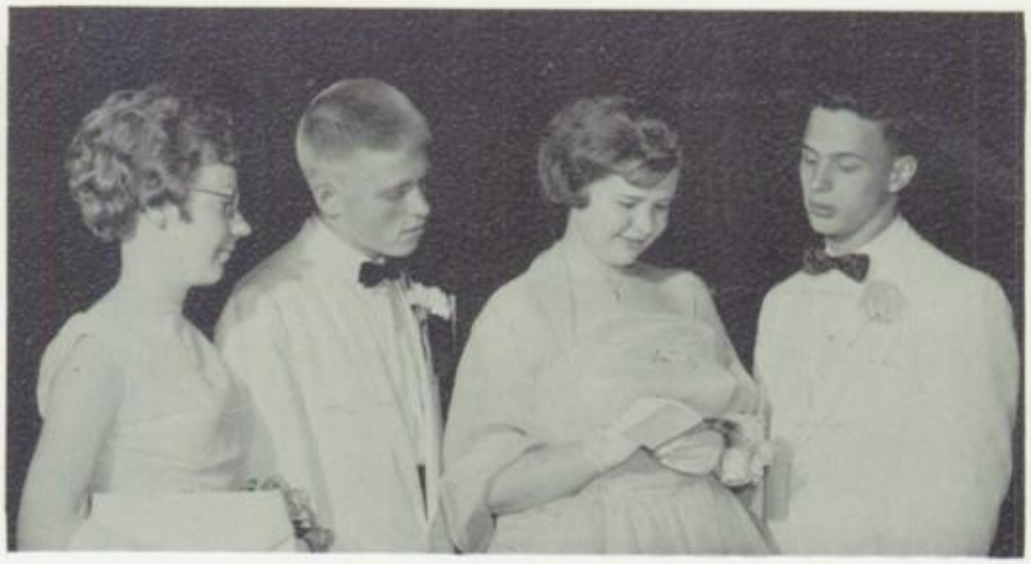
Wayne Dick, Larry McCoy, Chuck McCreery, and Clyde Tantlinger discussed the creative decorating techniques used by the juniors.



"Save that dance for me," said Don Stewart (right) to Carol Ann Robb as Barbara Shank and Matt Mulvihill interestedly read the prom program.

entertained the seniors

Another group of smiling faces--Jan Hutchison, Gary Saltarelli, Debbie Trimble, and Lynn Busch.

Karen Johnson (standing) and Andrea Howe displayed their beautiful gowns as Bill Clawson and Terry Ritenour nodded approval.
